The Standard Life Global Index Fund 20 launched on 17 August 2021. In order to show the historic performance of a similar portfolio prior to 17 August 2021, we use the past performance of the three underlying funds in which Global Index Fund 20 invests. The historic portfolio is comprised of the underlying Vanguard Global Stock Index Institutional EUR (ISIN IE00B03HD191), the Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Institutional EUR (ISIN IE0031786696) and the Vanguard Global Bond Index Institutional Plus Hedged Acc EUR (ISIN IE00BGCZ0B53). This performance track history assumes a fixed allocation of 80% Global Bonds and 20% Global Equities. The portfolio past performance is reflective of asset allocation rebalancing on a monthly basis. Please note that the Standard Life Global Index Fund 20 is rebalanced on an ongoing basis. The annual management charge (AMC) of these underlying funds is different to the AMC of the Standard Life Global Index Fund 20.

Quarterly market review

In the second quarter of 2024, economic activity slowed in the United States, but rebounded in Europe. Inflation continued to fall towards target levels, albeit slowly. The European Central Bank (ECB) became the first major central bank to cut interest rates this year. Vanguard think the Bank of England (BoE) and US Federal Reserve (Fed) are likely to follow suit with their own rate cuts soon.

The euro area economy came out of recession in the first quarter of this year, growing by 0.3% relative to the final quarter of 2023. Economic activity indicators suggest growth may have slowed in the second quarter. The unemployment rate declined to 6.4% in April 2024 from 6.5% at the start of the year. Annual core inflation declined from a peak of 5.7% in the year to March 2023 to 2.9% in the 12 months to June. The ECB cut its main interest rate by 0.25 percentage points (pp) in June to 3.75%.

In the United Kingdom, the economy rebounded from recession, growing by 0.7% in the first quarter of 2024 compared with the final quarter of 2023. The latest economic activity data suggest that momentum cooled in the second quarter of 2024, though a small expansion is still expected. Annual core inflation, which excludes the volatile energy, food, alcohol and tobacco components, slowed significantly from above 5% at the start of the year to 3.5% in May. However, services inflation and wage growth remained elevated. The BoE kept the Bank Rate on hold at 5.25% at its May meeting.

The United States economy slowed from a growth rate of 3.4% in the last quarter of 2023 to 1.4% in the first quarter of 2024. The job vacancy rate declined and the unemployment rate increased from 3.7% in January 2024 to 4.1% in June. US core inflation moderated in April and May compared with the first quarter of the year, but progress remains slow. The Fed opted to keep its target interest rate range at 5.25%-5.5% in the second quarter.

In China, economic growth accelerated to 1.6% in the first quarter of 2024, compared with 1.2% in the previous quarter. Core inflation grew by 0.6% in the 12 months to May 2024. The People's Bank of China kept monetary policy largely unchanged in the second quarter of 2024.

Quarterly market outlook

The last decade has been exceptional, driven by the strong run for US equities, but it's important to have realistic expectations. Vanguard don't think the next decade will mirror the previous one and expect stock market returns across regions to be more similar, which supports the case for a globally diversified portfolio.

Equity valuations have increased not just in the US stock market but also elsewhere, which means their long-term (10-year annualised return) forecasts for diversified portfolios are slightly lower relative to the beginning of the year. Compared to a few years ago, however, the 10-year outlook for multi-asset portfolios is far improved, thanks in part to higher bond market return expectations. The higher-for longer interest rate outlook is a positive development for long-term bond investors. That's why having a mix of assets across global shares and bonds can help smooth returns over time with the better performing investments helping to offset those that perform less well.
